Breaking New Boundaries in Barrier-Free Living.

The ZeroThreshold Design Challenge.

NorthCoast Community Homes, along with The Cleveland Foundation, invites everyone to Think Differently about accessibility.

Together we can elevate the idea of accessibility through intentionally beautiful design.

The ZeroThreshold Design Competition invites professional architects, interior designers, students, and others to create new, bold designs in: new home construction, existing home remodel, shared community spaces, accessory dwellings, and neighborhood design.

It is an important step in changing the conversation about accessibility.

Not only will this competition launch Cleveland towards being the world's best "barrier-free city," the solutions can be broadly applicable around the world.
